

Privacy Policy

Acquient Media is dedicated to protecting your information. The following disclosure explains how we maintain your information.

When requesting services, we require profile information in order to perform the services rendered. If required to complete a transaction, we may also request credit card or account number information. All regular transactions will be processed using PayPal, the number one secure way to make online payments. We may also subscribe our customer's to our internal mailing list to notify them of company news or new services which may be of interest the customer. You may modify your information on file with us at any time by contacting Acquient directly and verifying your identity.

We use customer information to provide services and provide information on our company. We also use the account information on file to contact the customer when necessary. We use unique identifiers like phone numbers or usernames to verify a user's identity. Unless required to perform a service for a transaction, we do not share your information with outside entities.